CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 16.—The built campaign in wheat, whilel seemed yesterday to be on the wave of success, came to a sudden grief to-day, and at the close of the session holders had lost almost all the profits that the advance promised them. There were all kinds of selling to be seen, but the most notable was that of the clevator concerns and the buy professionals. Armour was a conspicuous depressing factor, whilst Linn and Cudahy were credited with being almost equally induential on the selling side. Reception to Mr. Beauchamp.

Rev. W. R. Beauchamp, the new pastor of St. James Methodist church, and his young bride, were given a reception last night at the church by his congregation, in order that all might become acquainted with the young couple. A most pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. Beauchamp has already won his way into the hearts of his flock, and will prove a great addition to the coterie of Richmond ministers.

On the Committee of Courts of Justice, On the Committee of Courts of Justice, In the statement published in yester-day's Times as to the places which had been given the Richmond members of the House of Delegates, the fact was overlooked that Mr. Reddy had been appointed on the Committee on Courts of Justice. Besides, Mr. Reddy is a member of the Committee on Counties, Cities, and Towns, and of the Committee on Officers and Offices of the Capitel.

A Boy Missing.

Luther Moore Goode, a fourteen-yearold lad, of Relifield, Greenesylle county, is missing from his home, and his relatives are anxious to know of his whereabouts. When he left home he wore a brown coat, checked knee pants, black hose, and luced shoes. He is described as anxing blue eyes, light hair, broad front teeth, and being rather slimly built. Information as to his present wherenbouts will be thankfully received by W. T.

A FRATERNAL MEETING.

GRAND OFFICERS VISIT MANCHES-TER COUNCIL, ROYAL ARCANUM.

A Pretty Manchester Wedding -Mr. Falson at Home Again-A Small Accident-Personals, MANCHESTER BUBEAU RICHMOND TIMES, No. 1121 HULL STRITT, BEAUTIE BLOCK.

There was an official visitation, on the part of the grand officers of the Royal Arcanum, to Manchester Council, No.

Arcanum, to Manchester Council, No. 1217, last night. This visitation was in connection with the "union-raily" series gotten up by Past Grand Regent C. W. Harwood, this meeting being the last of the series. It was a matter of general and keen resert that the physical indisposition of Mr. Harwood prevented his attendance on the occasion, but he was present in spirit, and the brethren held him present in their minds and hearts. The visiting brethren met with a most cordial reception at the hands of their brothers of Manchester Council, and the exercises were of a most pleasant and fraternal character. Grand Regent John J. Jamison, of Alexandria, and Past Grand Regent James B. Blanks, of Petersburg, were introduced to the Council by Judge John H. Ingram, and were welcomed by Acting Regent Beatty and Mr. B. P. Owens in very apporpriate remarks, after which the regular business of the Council was transacted, the speeches being properly postponed to a later lower. peeches being properly postponed to a speeches being properly postponed to a later hour.

After the regular council business had been dispatched, the Past Regent was presented, and made an earnest speech in leshalf of the Arcanum, urging greater diligence in securing members, regular attendance on the council meetings, etc. He presented interesting statistics, which demonstrated that the order is in an excellent condition, and stadily growing. It is an honor to belong to such an institution, he declared.

Past Grand James B. Flanks was next introduced by Regent Owens in a characteristic, humorous, and courteous speech, and "the silver-tongued Arcanumite" took the floor and delighted the assembly with one of his pointed, ornate, logical, and interesting speeches. The assembly with one of his pointed, ornate, logical, and interesting speeches. The beauties and advantages of the order were held up in an impressive manner, and he earnestly urged renewed efforts in behalf of the good cause. Taking as his text the words of the Supreme Regent, "the world has never seen its equal." the eloquent speaker took a rhetorical flight that captivated the audience and elicited the heartlest applause. He told many pointed and pathetic in-ence and elicited the heartiest applause. He told many pointed and pathetic instances illustrative of the charitable work of the great Arcanum order.

The following efficers were duly elected for the ensuing year: Representative to the Grand Council. Benjamin P. Owens: alternate, George E. Gary; Regent, Lawrence P. Pool; Viee-Regent, A. J. Smith. Orator, T. H. Beatty; Secretary, George E. Gary; Collector, Charles Walker; Treasurer, L. M. Nunnally; Chaplain, Judge John H. Ingram; Guard, W. B. Ball; Warden, J. T. Herring; Sentry, A. S. Wright; Past Regent, B. P. Owens; Trustees, W. S. Gill, R. C. Broadus; John G. Rice.

Letters were read from Past Grand Regents Walter T. Irvin. of Norfolk, and Charles W. Harwood, of Richmond, which expressed much regret at inability ood cheer.

After the interesting speeches,

Council was closed in due form, and the visitors and members were invited to repair to a spacious restaurant and partake of refreshments, which were duly dispatched and much enjoyed, and the occasion was one of fraternal greetings dispatched and much enjoyed, and the occasion was one of fraternal greetings and cordial hand-grasps.

Thus closed the series of union rallies in this district for the year. That they have been pleasant and profitable, all who have attended them admit, and much credit is due Past Grand Regent?

C. W. Harwood, who originated them, and to whose indefatigable zeal their success is largely due.

It has been reported amound town that Mr. J. E. Faison, who lives on Eleventh street, had disappeared from the city.
Faison left home about two weeks ago to to take a hunt in Chesteriald. He stopped at his brother's, in Chester, and pald him a longer visit than he expected. This was the cause of the report that his whereabouts was not known. Those who are interested in Mr. Faison's whereabouts will be glad to learn that he has been at home since last Saturday.

GEN. J. W. O'FERRALL DEAD.

A Brother of the Governor Passes Away in

A Brother of the Governor Passes Away in Mississippi.

A telegram was received yesterday by Governor O'Ferrall announcing the death of his brother, General John W. O'Ferrail, at Enterprise, Miss.

For several months General O'Ferrail had been in falling health, and though it was feared his end was near, the sad news was a great shock to the Governor. General O'Ferrail was born in the lower valley of Virginia about seventy years ago. He was the half brother of Governor O'Ferrail, being the oldest child by their father's first marriage. He went South when quite a young man, and settled at Enterprise, where he became a prominent cotton dealer and merchant, and amassed a considerable fortune. During Sherman's raid his beautiful residence, which had just been occupied by General Poik, and the buildings connected therewith, were burned by the Union forces.

General O'Ferrail was a man of great prominence and influence in his adopted State. He was at one time general o' the Mississippi militia, and subsequently president of the State Agricultural Society and member of the Board of Public Works.

He loaves a wife and several children.

Works.

He leaves a wife and several children. The former, who was his second wife, was Miss Helen Walton, who was widely known for her beauty and accomplishments. Sie was a daughter of Colonel John B. Walton, the war commander of the Washington Artillery of New Orleans. Governor O'Ferrall, on account of the distance and the importance of the official business now demanding his attention, will be unable to attend the funeral.

The Committee on Counties, Cities, and Towns met immediately after the adjournment of the House in Room No. 2, on the upper floor of the Caritol. The bill first considered was one introduced by General Hundley, of Nottoway, prykling for an amendment to the charter of the town of Crew allowing the town authorities to levy taxes for paving streets and exempting them from the county road tax. In the absence of General Hundley, the bill was passed by county road tax. In the absence of ten-eral fluoner, the bill was passed by.

The next bill taken up was one in-troduced March fo, 1884, authorizing the Board of Supervisors to determine what amount shall be paid to certain county officers. The bill seeks to prevent boards of supervisors from supplementing coun-ty officials with additional revenues. The bill was passed by to enable the patron to appear before the committee on bebill was passed by to enable the patron is appear before the committee on behalf of the bill.

Mr. Parker's bill, exempting Southampton county from the operation of the general dog law, was next taken up. On motion of Mr. Simpson, of Campbell county, his county was added to the list of exemptions. The committee then decided to recommend the passage of the bill to the House as amended.

The committee then adjourned until tomorrow.

Richmond College 6, and H. Society.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Geographical and Historical Society of Richmond College was held yesterday afternoon. The vice-president, Mr. R. E. Loving, presided in the absence of Presi-cent F. W. Boatwright, Messrs. F. T. Sutton and Motley H. Coleman, both of litchmond, were elected members of the society.

BEETHOVEN'S SONATA.

The "piece de resistance" was Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 83. The "Andante Favori in F" constituted the second part of this sonata, but Besthoven found that this would render the sonata too long, so he wisely substitued the adagio for the andante, and it now serves as an introduction to the final rondo. This work is an example of technical brilliancy, and gives great scope for a "bravura" player. In it Paderewski was, I think, heard at his best, and despite the heavy character of the work, he so infused his individuality into it that even the most unmusical ear could not help appreciating its intrinsic beauty and soul. Mr. Marx Gunst, chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the City Gas-Works, has returned from a business trip out of town. When seen last night in regard to the time when his committee would formulate a report, he said that he had not yet called a meeting for the reason that two members of the committee were out of town, who desired to be present at the final meeting. Mr. Gunst gave the assurance, however, that this meeting would take place in time to have the report ready for the next regular meeting of the Common Council. Marx Gunst, chairman of the Senator Daniel's Daughter to Wed.

Senator and Mrs. Daniel have issued cards to the weading of their daughter, Miss Carrie Warwick Daniel, to Mr. Frederick Harper, of Wilmington, N. C. to take place on the 19th at "Westerley," the Senator's elegant home on the suburbs of Lynchburg and doubtless will be a very interesting and brilliant affair. The prospective bride is possessed of a charming personality, and is full of the freshness of youth. Hestdes being very pretty, she is quite noted for her fine sense. She is unspolled by the dress patrons of fashion, and is altogether a wholesome, handsome Virginia giri, and the pride of her parents.

Mexican Exposition.

The commission who are to represent Virginia at the forthcoming Mexican Exposition in 1895 in the City of Mexica, will meet at the office of Mr. Evan R. Chesterman, private ascretary of the Governor, in the Capitol building, to-day at 12:30 P. M., instead of at the Jefferson Hotel. The change has been made for convenience of access to papers filed in the Governor's office.

The melody moves with an ineffable grace in its pellucid thirds and sixths, and is led through an entrancing series of harmonic progressions. The bass is one of those constantly recurring figures, of a gradeful, undulating movement, that Chopin employed so frequently, and with such striking effect. This nocturns conforms to his usual scheme, in containing a middle movement of contrasted character, or, at least, of contrasted melodic contour and rhythm. The melody upon which it is founded is declared by one of Chopin's commentators, Karasowski, to be the most beautiful he ever wrote; and under its spell, few will be found to contest this judgment. It is carried through a maze of shifting harmonies to a recurrence of the first theme, whereupon the two alternate in brief repetitions to the close. Schumann calls attention to the advance in maturity and ripeness of style that Chopin displayed in these two nocturnes, published asopus 37, and notes especially their simpler ornamentation, and quieter grace, in contrast with his earlier compositions. They were published in 1840, one of the most feeund years of his career, and seem to have been composed, or, at least, inished, during one of his visits to his friend. THE GREAT MUSICIAN.

Planists of prodigious technique have multiplied during the last two decades, until only one in perhaps a thousand ever commands more than a passing wonderment at their digital dexterity, as in it all there is a total absence of expression or power to touch the heart. But once in a while one of these virtuosos possesses that magnetism which fires every one with its soulfulness in every piece they interpret, and such a one in a most eminent degree is Paderewski.

Throughout the almost limitizes range of his repertoire, he infuses into his rendition of the piece in hand all his own marvellous personality, which becomes to interwoven and commingled with his masterly conception of the work he is interpreting that he becomes completely identified with the composition, and imparts to it not only the author's conception, but his own rare inspiration as well. What grasp! What execution!

To my mind, while Paderewski gave to Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Schumann's works the most finished interpretation, he seemed to be more completely identified with the genius and spirit of his immortal countrynan, Chopin, whom he closely resembles, as is exemplified in his own compositions. In point of pathos, refinement, and subtle magnetism, I consider that Paderewski holds the same relation to music that Edgar Alias Poedoes to poetry. Both are incomparable geniuses, both are creators, and both are realizers.

HIS AFFABLE MANNERS.

RETURNED TO WASHINGTON.

RETURNED TO WASHINGTON.

I might write on forever about the beauties of each number, but words would be weak to describe, as each was perfect. At the close of the programme the audience forced Paderewski to respond to several encores, before they consented to leave the Academy.

Vaderewski arrived in the city early visterialy morning. He registered at the Jefferson, with his valet and business manager. He spent the day very quietly in his suite of rooms, and received no cailers. In the afternoon he went into the club-room, where he played several games of billiards. He is very fond of the game, and is quite an expert with his cue. Paderewski returned to the hotel after the concert, and after a light supper retired. He left for Washington at 7 o'clock this morning, where he plays to-night. HIS AFFABLE MANNERS.

It will interest those who have never met Paderewski and had any personal association with him to know that he is perfectly unaffected and as approachable as a child. He wins the heart of every one he meets by his affable manner, and to any fellew-musician, he is as genial and cordial as possible, and is at all times exactly what he looks—a perfect gentleman.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Paderewski's great genius is not nearly developed yet. This fact I draw from his present compositions, which already bespeak the wealth of works that he will give to the warld, and they will be works second only, perhaps, to that greatest of Poles, Chopin.

The meeting of the History Committee of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, which will be held to-night in the erans, which will be held to-night in the Senate chamber, promises to be an event of great importance, not only to the ex-Confederates of Virginia, but also to every other resident. Two important points are to be discussed.

One is the best means to secure a complete roster of the Confederates of Virginia, and the other is to fully look into the question of school histories, great complaint naving been made of the unfairness to the South evinced by Northern historians.

These questions were partially discussed at a meeting of the committee held last Wednesday afternoon, but on account of the absence of many members of the committee, an adjournment was taken until to-night.

Senator James N. Stubbs, of Gloucester, is chairman of the committee, and many distinguished Confederates are numbered among its members. I want especially to allude to Chopin's Nocture. G major, Op. 37. No. 2, which for beauty of expression, to my mind, excelled all the other numbers.
